

The Bowling Green State University (BGSU) Master of Education in Special Education with a focus on Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD) is designed to prepare educators, psychologists, therapists, medical personnel and speech and language pathologists who want to explore innovative ways to support individuals with ASD.

A certificate in ASD is embedded into the master's program or available as a stand-alone certificate. The need to understand and identify appropriate interventions for individuals with ASD is increasingly important and the demand for highly trained professionals is growing. This program equips professionals with knowledge of advanced educational methods for individuals with ASD.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS:

Applicants are required to submit scanned copies of official or unofficial transcripts from all institutions attended. Upon admission, final official or notarized copies of transcripts from all institutions where degrees were earned and diplomas from international institutions must be submitted. Also, applicants are asked to provide a statement of purpose. One of the following test scores is required for those applying for the Master of Education program that have not already earned a master's degree: Praxis scores, OAE scores or GRE scores (within the last five years).

Those applying for the certificate program only do not have to provide test scores.
